Mrs. Casselman Takes East Edmonton Seat In Decisive Vote Victory

Candidate First Woman Liberal M.P. In Canada—Polls 7,404 Votes In Swift Triumph—14,359 Ballots Cast

Basing her campaign on a strong all-out effort to win the war and to lay plans for post-war reconstruction, Mrs. Cora T. Casselman, M.P. Liberal candidate in the East Edmonton Dominion constituency by-election of Monday swept to a swift, decisive victory over Orvis A. Kennedy, Social Credit-New Democracy candidate, and Albert A. MacLeod, Toronto, People's Movement candidate.

In thus winning the seat and retaining it for the Liberals, Mrs. Casselman proved successful as her first try in politics and became the first Liberal woman to be elected to parliament. Hereafter she will be Mrs. Cora T. Casselman, M.P.

She holds the seat in the Casselman family, the by-election having been necessitated by the death of her husband, Lieut. F. C. Casselman, M.C. who captured it in the Dominion general election of March, 1940.

FINAL STANDING
Final unofficial standing of the candidates after the first count at the polls by the deputy returning officers follows:
Mrs. Casselman, 7,404.
Mr. Kennedy, 4,203.
Mr. MacLeod, 2,980.

The official count will be made by J. H. Fulton, returning officer, on Thursday, immediately after which he will make his declaration of election. After declaration, there will be a four day wait, pending possible applications for a recount. In the meantime ballots and other election material will be put into a large envelope and in a mail sack. When the four day period has elapsed and if no application for a recount is made, the material will be sent to Ottawa, and Mrs. Casselman will be sworn in.

City's Three-Mile-Long Victory Loan Parade Is Witnessed By Thousands

As the symbolic Torch of Victory sped on wings of hope toward embattled Britain, the dynamo behind the symbol whirled around Edmonton streets, the city's three-mile-long parade formed a thrilling spectacle to launch the city's Victory Loan drive here.

Edmontonians Buy $825,800 Victory Loan

Subscriptions to the Victory Loan, 1941, which were reported to Ottawa up to 7 p.m. Monday, from the city of Edmonton alone totalled $825,800. It was announced Tuesday by H. W. Egan, northern Alberta chairman.

This includes some of the larger subscriptions, but does not include many other such subscriptions which are known to be in progress. Mr. Egan said.

The total report for the country units outside of Edmonton was $148,350, or a grand total for northern Alberta up to 7 p.m. Monday of $974,150.

The campaign was fairly well launched on Monday night. Events continued on Page 5, Col. 6

Premier King Thanks Voters East Edmonton

OTTAWA, June 3.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King Monday night expressed his thanks to voters of Edmonton East federal constituency who had supported Mrs. C. Casselman as Liberal candidate and in electing her, had shown their confidence in the war effort of the administration.

His statement follows:
The country generally will be pleased at the return of Mrs. C. Casselman to the House of Commons to fill the vacancy created by the death of her late husband.

Mrs. Casselman herself is certain to take a prominent part in the public life of Canada. As one who has been greatly interested in social problems, and is exceptionally well qualified to present a woman's point of view, her return to parliament will be specially welcomed at the present time.

I should like to express my thanks and those of my colleagues to the voters of Edmonton East who have so strongly supported Mrs. Casselman's candidature, thereby also expressing confidence in the war effort of the administration.

In returning from placing a candidate in the field in the by-election, the Conservatives in the constituency disclosed their readiness to avoid altogether a most unnecessary political battle.

As to the significance of the by-election with respect to the views of the voters of Edmonton East for the confidence they have shown in me and to assure them again that I shall do my utmost to carry out all my responsibilities worthily, I thank you.

"My thanks go also to all those untiring workers, who have helped me splendidly in my campaign, and to the Edmonton Bulletin which gave me such splendid support throughout my campaign."

"It gives me great pleasure that so many of the voters of Edmonton have supported me."

Today's War Moves

CONQUEST OF SYRIA would present a difficult problem for Hitler—more difficult than the conquest of Crete—if Britain decides to make a fight for it.

Hitler's problem is not troops and mechanized equipment into Syria. Syria is approximately 800 miles from Crete, which would be Hitler's nearest strong base after he has moved up and the airfields put him in shape. The scanty base in the Italian Dodecanese islands are about 400 miles away.

The distance makes an air route impossible. It is not possible. The British fleet stands in the way of an attack by sea, even more so.

Silence Of Official Sources In London Is Said Significant

Observers Point Out Similar Silences In Past Have Usually Meant Something Big Was In Progress

LONDON, June 3.—(CP)—The Associated Press tonight said: "Eagerly awaiting some word that Britain has taken steps to beat the Germans into Syria, qualified observers tonight suggested that the current wall of official silence was a highly significant sign."

The Middle East headquarters in Cairo announced only that there was "no change in the situation" on all fronts, and the Royal Air Force omitted mention of operations in Iraq, Syria or the eastern Mediterranean.

In connection with the possibility that a British movement into Syria already had started, observers here told the Associated Press that such a silence in the past almost invariably meant that something big was in progress.

Middle East Chiefs Have Free Hand

Authoritative sources had the invariable reply: "No confirmation" for Turkish and other reports that German forces are moving into Syria by sea and air.

It was recalled Foreign Secretary Eden recently told parliament the Middle East command had been given full authority to take any steps necessary to prevent the Germans from getting a foothold to menace the Suez canal.

The implications were clear that action might already be in progress.

Race For Positions May Be Started

LONDON, June 3.—(CP)—Qualified observers predicted today the war cabinet soon would declare Syria an enemy-occupied territory, opening the French-mandated wedge between Turkey and Palestine for full-scale British attack.

Reports from Turkey that the Nazis already had landed sea-borne infantry with motorized equipment at the Syrian port of Latakia, just east of Britain's island of Cyprus, were interpreted in some quarters as indicating the race for positions on a new front already is on.

There were indications British official circles would not be surprised if the Vichy government soon requested "protection" of all French colonial possessions, including Syria and Lebanon.

PRELUDE TO SYRIZ
British forces also are known to be watching closely for a Nazi move into French Africa in an effort to strike South Atlantic bases and to attack British and Free French African colonies.

Some sources said such a drive probably would start with a push through Spain and Portugal and an attack on Gibraltar.

Germany Torpedo Portuguese Vessel
SAGRES, Portugal, June 3.—(AP)—Three crewmen from a small Portuguese fishing boat Kapordador of Lisbon arrived here today and told authorities their vessel had been torpedoed by a German submarine off Sagres, Sunday, and that two members of the crew were killed. The survivors were brought here by another fishing boat.

SHIPS CLOSE TO SHORE
Three were cruised as well as destroyed in the evacuation fleet. The destroyers went on close to shore and the light cruisers around a few feet farther.

All evacuated forces had received complete instructions in advance regarding their movements. Continued on Page 5, Col. 4

Looking them Over

JACK KELLY

WITH Nazi bombs still falling thickly and despite bad news from the eastern end of the Mediterranean, the indomitable British are preparing to run their beloved Derby again this month.

It is more than likely that the Germans are pondering this in amazement and that the rest of the world outside of the British Empire is considering this just another of those inexplicable idiosyncrasies of the English-like their fondness for tea and ability to find a spark of dry humor in the worst situations of the war.

Why, ask these other people, should Britons be thinking now of a horse race when their Empire is facing a gravest crisis? In an all-out, supreme effort, how can these people get excited about some horse running a race?

The answer is that Britons know they can do better work on the job they have set out to finish if they have proper relaxation and they know that there is no better relaxation from a constant and terrific strain than a sporting event so exciting that it takes your mind off more serious matters in spite of yourself.

Conservation of energy and maintaining of morale are two vital war factors in which the British surpass every other people. Their ability in this respect is likely to be one of the major factors in bringing victory.

No Harum-Scarum Detours

The dictatorship mood on the other hand has never had this ability to stay marked down. The German mind is a sad and serious one—the sort that delights in tragedies—and has produced what is probably the world's highest proportion of suicides. It runs straight ahead in one general direction without any of the happy, harum-scarum detours that relax, freshen and strengthen the British mind.

Already rather impressive evidence is piling up that the German mind is tugging under relentless driving to greater and greater war efforts. The majority of those thoroughly familiar with the situation in Germany insist that once a break starts the entire Nazi machine will burst over-board.

The British government has found that men can work efficiently only 40 hours a week. In some factories war workers were doing 72 hours a week, but despite their most earnest efforts they were actually doing more harm than good under such a grind. Breakages and accidents were more than offset by the extra time put into production.

It Takes More Than a Nap

Psychology has long ago established that sleep alone will not refresh a tired brain. It must be given something new and interesting to think about, something which completely absorbs for a time the problems that have made it tired.

This is the reason why sport ranks as the number one tonic for men and women under today's heavy strain.

The average person has probably never given this angle of our war effort much thought, but it is a scientific fact which the heads of the British government have recognized for a long time. That is why they have raised no objection to the Derby being run, why they have encouraged soccer games and permitted a cup final to be played last week before a crowd of 45,000. The Dominion government in Ottawa has recognized this fact and repeatedly asked that every effort be made to carry on sport as nearly a normal basis as possible.

Sport is not a fiddling while Rome burns, a non-essential to be brushed aside when things get tough. It is a major source of new power that actually becomes more important as the strain on us increases.

Last Out Called On Iron-Man Of Baseball

Dodgers To Play Stamps At Ponoka Wednesday Night

Next scheduled game of the Central Alberta Baseball League will be at Ponoka on Wednesday evening when the Edmonton Dodgers will tangle with the Stampedeers starting at 6:30 p.m.

This will be Ponoka's first game of the season and will be watched with interest. During recent years this town has turned out exceptionally strong ball teams and has generally been the club to beat.

Edmonton has cut deeply into the Stampedeers roster of last season however, and Manager Charlie Lewis has been forced to find a lot of replacements. How good these new men are is the question the rest of the league is eager to see answered.

The next game in Edmonton will be on Thursday evening at 6:30 p.m. with the Arrows and Dodgers again facing. Dodger took to 11-5 win the opening U.S. but this margin was built up by a six-run attack in the second inning when the Yankees hit a homer, a double, a triple and a home run. The remainder of the game was close and interesting.

Giants' Catcher Draws $150 fine

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—Harry Danning, New York Giants' catcher, was fined $150 Monday for hitting a batter in the first inning of the first game of the season.

Danning was ejected in the seventh inning of the first game at Umpire Lee Ballantra's decision on balls and strikes.

Challenge Tennis At Garneau Courts

The new playing regulations for the Northern Hardware women's tennis trophy have made it impossible for the last year final holders to go for the trophy this year, therefore the MacKay sisters, present holders, are splitting their team and will play with Mrs. Geo. Taylor and Miss Peggy Molloy in the first challenge of the trophy this season.

The match will take place at Garneau Tennis Courts on Wednesday evening.

Junior Ball Meeting Tonight

There will be a meeting of the Edmonton Junior Baseball League tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the offices of the Lovett Service Station when formal entry of clubs will be completed. Any new interest in joining a team is requested to be present.

Reports on financing arrangements, rules, equipment, schedule and constitution will be dealt with.

Lou Gehrig Passes At Home After Long Fight For Life

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig, great first baseman of New York Yankees for 14 years, died Monday night after two years' illness of a rare disease that everyone expected he himself believed incurable.

The "Iron Horse" of baseball, who would have been 38 years old June 18, died at his home in the presence of his wife after a critical pain only three weeks. He did not lose consciousness until just before death at 7:10 p.m. M.T.

The disease which erased Gehrig from the lineup of the mighty Yankees on May 2, 1939, was diagnosed as "amyotrophic lateral sclerosis," a hardening of the spinal cord which caused muscles to atrophy.

He waited away sharply in the final weeks and was reported 35 pounds underweight and barely able to speak shortly before he died.

He had served for a year and half as a member of the New York City parole commission and visited his office regularly until about a month ago, when he decided to retire at home to conserve his strength.

In his playing days Gehrig was one of baseball's greatest stars. He was most famous for his great playing record by hitting in more than 180 runs a year for 13 years.

He had served in playing 2,139 consecutive regularly scheduled American League games in 14 years.

IN HALL OF FAME

He never was chosen the most valuable player in the league and he never was in the Yankee lineup in a baseball hall of fame. He was chosen as a member of the New York City parole commission and visited his office regularly until about a month ago, when he decided to retire at home to conserve his strength.

He participated in 34 world series games and piled up numerous batting records of various kinds.

Playing along with Babe Ruth in the golden era of the Yankees, and carrying on their slugging traditions after Ruth left, Gehrig set a major league record by hitting in more than 180 runs a year for 13 years.

He was chosen as a member of the New York City parole commission and visited his office regularly until about a month ago, when he decided to retire at home to conserve his strength.

START OF RECORD BREAK

His unparalleled streak of consecutive games began the first day he broke into the Yankee lineup. On June 1, 1923, manager Miller Huggins sent him to the plate as a pinch-hitter. The next day he replaced Whitey Pipp at first base and from there until May 1939, he never missed a game—regular and reserve—without being in the lineup.

Through all the years Gehrig was known for his clean habits and affable disposition and these factors made him one of baseball's best loved players.

They also helped him stand off the ravages of his disease after others had given up hope.

Gehrig refused to believe that his disease was incurable and as long as possible maintained a normal life.

He had withdrawn voluntarily from the Bronx Side Stadium in

Embattled Britons Retain Turf Classic Despite Nazis

NEWMARKET, June 3.—(AP)—Here, far from London where Charles II played horse racing in the 15th century, the stage is being set for the daddy of races, the "Derby." Originally scheduled June 6 at Newbury, the classic was switched here by the Jockey Club and the date changed to June 18. It was run here last year.

Despite the war, excitement is running high. Thousands are expected to attend, though there is some criticism about the enthusiasm over hoof beats in these times.

Podersky's Beat Maple Leafs 6-2 In Opening Game

Podersky Furniture turned back the Maple Leafs 6-2 at Kingsway Park on Monday night in the first game of the revised schedule for City Junior Men's Softball League.

The game was one of the best played in the junior league this season, both teams putting up an energetic effort. Although each club had two errors chalked up against them the misuses were minor ones.

Podersky came through with five runs in the last three innings to cinch the game after trailing right from the first frame.

Dick Norn furnished the firing force, catching a foul off the wire, getting in front of the stand for the second out in the ninth. Dick Norn, up with both feet on the wire to make the catch.

Scotty Svedeen, Jack Krawchuk and Nick Krawchuk each made a pair of hits while the Podersky crew collected a total of five two-baggers during the evening.

Maple Leafs got on the right track when Nick Krawchuk singled to centre. Nick was forced at second on an attempted steal when Alex Harris produced a grounder, but Joe Cherniawski, Podersky's double in the first run.

To the second Jim Malone walked, went to the next stop on John Coler's sacrifice, continued to the third on a passed ball and completed the scoring on Scotty Svedeen's single.

Podersky hit the scoreboard in the third. Nick Krawchuk rapped out a two-base hit and went to the third station on a wild pitch. Roy Chisholm, waiting for a weak out, then Krawchuk scored on a squeeze play with him.

Jackowski led the three-man rally for Podersky in the seventh with a drive through second, and Mike Chelnicki followed suit. The runs then all came in on the same type of play—the runner on first beating the throw-in from an infield grounder, three times in succession.

In the ninth, Bill Saxon and Nick Krawchuk each rolled a single and sacrifice by Cliff Carter, Roy Chisholm followed to account for the pair of runs.

Total Support Of War Effort Is Now Needed

OTTAWA, June 3.—(CP)—Three prominent Canadians—Sir Lyman D. Duff, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, President J. S. Thompson, of the University of Saskatchewan, and Mayor Stanley Lewis, of Ottawa—joined Monday night in supporting the Dominion's $500,000,000 Victory Loan, 1941.

Sir Lyman said 10,000,000 Canadians, joined with other civilized peoples of the world "will carry the flag of civilization and freedom to a certain and not the distant victory."

Dr. Thompson, speaking on behalf of the Canadian universities, urged the whole Canadian people to pledge, "As so many of our finest young men have already done, all that they have without reserve for the achievement of victory."

Mayor Lewis, president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and municipalities, said: "The decision we made 21 months ago (to enter the war) now requires the total support of all Canadians. Your subscription to the Victory Loan is a vital part in backing up that decision."

Their talks were broadcast over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Dr. Thompson said the universities were playing a vital part in the war effort. They were "in the fight ... because we know something of the history and the long story of civilization and the proper values of life."

Three Men Lose Lives In Wreck

QUEEN CHARLOTTE CITY, B.C., June 3.—(CP)—Two and possibly three deaths were caused Monday night in the wreck of the 38-ton Armer Salvage Company vessel, Restless, but four other men crashed safely on a makeshift raft from the Queen Charlotte island rocks where the craft pounded to pieces Sunday in a gale.

The bodies of Peter Lorenzen, Prince Rupert, contractor and former city building inspector, and Frank McRae were recovered from the sea near the wreck scene.

Search is continuing for the body of a third man, John Barker, who was aboard the 60-foot vessel when she struck the Sardinia rocks on the east coast of Graham island in a stiff southeast gale. He also is believed to have drowned. Mr. Rae was an engineer for the E. J. Ryan Construction Company and Barker was a member of the service vessel's crew.

The other four aboard the boat, Captain C. J. Couture of Vancouver, a superintendent of the Ryan Company, and A. E. Richards, Robert Morgan and William Nott, were washed ashore on the makeshift raft put together quickly from bits of wreckage as the Restless began to break up under

Beatty Urges C.P.R. Men To Support Loan

MONTREAL, June 3.—In a message appealing to all company officers and employees in Canada to support the Victory Loan drive Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., L.D., chairman and president Canadian Pacific Railway said "The government of Canada has announced the issuance of a Dominion loan in the amount of $500,000,000. The new loan will be available in units of $20, $100, $500 and $1,000."

"The money so obtained is to be used to provide for the pay, subsistence and equipment of the fighting forces of Canada, and to provide our mother country and ally, Britain, with supplies to enable her to continue the heroic struggle against those who threaten the liberty and justice on which our civilization is founded."

THRIFT NECESSARY
The Minister of Finance has warned us that one-third of the current income of the Canadian people will have to be devoted to government purposes. This involves thrift on a scale such as never has been known in Canada, for the money used by the individual citizen to provide himself with comforts and luxuries cannot at the same time be used to provide airplanes, ships and guns.

"In this, the greatest crisis in our history, the employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company will desire to play their full part."

"We have been furnished with a large volume of war traffic which has resulted in increased employment for many workers. It is our plain duty to lend to the state for the preservation of our homes and our freedom, any savings which we have available and any other savings we may be able to make through personal sacrifice."

DUTY TO AID
The company has undertaken that each employee will be interviewed by a member of a local employees committee to advise subscriptions, and to explain the method by which they may be made.

"The response made to the war savings campaign, especially in some departments was very satisfactory, and it is important that subscriptions in the new loan should not tend to reduce the monthly payments now being made for those certificates."

"It is the duty of each of us to make the maximum contribution to the national effort during these days when the fate of the world is being decided, and I am confident that every employee of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company will share in this effort to the utmost of his ability."

W. C. Woodward May Be Governor

OTTAWA, June 3.—(CP)—W. C. Woodward of Vancouver, executive assistant to Manitoba Minister Howe, returned to Ottawa over the weekend and his arrival caused a renewal of reports he shortly will be named lieutenant-governor of British Columbia.

It was learned however his appointment has not yet been before cabinet.

The present lieutenant-governor, Hon. Eric W. Hamber, was in Ottawa last week following an announcement he made in Victoria that with his term expired he would continue in office for a month or two until his successor was appointed.

WHEN I WAS A BOY I learned that, "Where a man's treasure is, there will his heart be also."

Today, as never before, I know my greatest treasure in all the world and where it lies. It's right within the circle of my own family.

And tomorrow I would go out into the fields or woods, armed with a shotgun and willingly fight and die for my family's sake.

But I am not asked for that, yet. Instead, I am urged to buy Victory Bonds to defend my home — Bonds to guarantee the safety of wives and families and children.

How little to ask of me when others are doing so much. Every uniform, every war headline, every news broadcast from Europe, reminds me of what I should do.

Yes! I'll buy until I can buy no more, I may not be in the front line myself, but my dollars are certainly going to be.

HOW TO BUY—Give your order to the canvasser who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and larger. Canvasser, bank, trust company or your local Victory Loan Headquarters will be glad to give you every assistance in making out your order form.

National Committee, Victory Loan 1941, Ottawa, Canada.

CHAPTER TWENTY EIGHT

THE night before Lee Brent was to return Miss Van came into Faith's room with the worried look on her face which was becoming habitual. Daphne was sitting by the window with her hands folded in her lap staring down the street.

In her mind was the constant hope that some night, perhaps when the least expected, Duke's car would appear. It had become almost an obsession in spite of the fact that his lawyer had warned her that he was planning to sue for a divorce if she refused to marry him.

Although she looked as fragile as a lily Daphne had the determination of a single track train.

Just as she had moved heaven and earth to win Dudley Mantle so she had secretly resolved never to give him up. If only he did not start proceedings against her before she had a chance to convince him of her sincerity.

MOVE DIFFICULT

The longer he delayed the more difficult it would be for him. Yet never in her life had she seen a man so enraged as her husband had been on that terrible night three weeks ago.

Daphne could not think of it without trembling. He had remained away from the house until he was sure Faith would be gone, while his humiliation and outraged love frustrated the battling pain. All the admiration he had felt for Daphne previously seemed to have turned to hate so fierce she could not even argue with him.

When she insisted that she did love him now, he snarled, "I'll never believe anything you say again. Go on, Daphne. Get out of this house before I break your neck."

She had left trembling without having been told of her honeymoon moon. But Daphne was none of it with the exception of her wedding ring.

The girls at the store were mortified at the charge in her. Since neither Daphne nor Faith would discuss it they indulged in the wildest speculations. Her husband probably beat her. Or perhaps he had discovered that she had married an affair with another man.

Every one thought he had married her for his money. And most of them thought it served her right. The one she had married, said Mrs. Dudley Mantle, had not endeared Daphne to her former associates and her present attitude of stolid acceptance made them feel that she considered herself too good for work.

What they could not understand was why she had returned to work.

He must have plenty on her or she could have gotten a divorce. Occasionally Faith heard whispers of these rumors but she did not repeat them.

Both Sybil and Faith felt as if the new Daphne was someone they did not know. She seemed to have been wrapped in a gloom not even Miss Van could penetrate.

But it was not Daphne who was on Miss Van's mind tonight. As she looked into a chair she asked, "The either of you girls met this man Sybil's been going out with?"

Daphne shook her head while Faith said, "No, why?"

"Doesn't it seem peculiar that he never comes to the house?"

Faith smiled.

"He works for the same company. You see he's co-pilot on one of the planes between here and Chicago and hasn't much time between runs."

But Sybil thought he'd call for her once in a while. Miss Van insisted, "Even on Sundays she meets him downtown. I can't understand it unless Sybil is ashamed of him."

"I'm sure that isn't it. Faith pointed out, "Daphne said last night, 'I can't imagine Sybil going with anyone like that.'"

Sybil's change in luck was remarked with a meaning look at Faith's face.

"She's much nicer than she used to be," Faith admitted.

NO RIGHT

"I know it is none of my business," Miss Van admitted, "I have no right to interfere in what you do, but there's something about this romance of Sybil's which doesn't worry about it."

"After even told me his name," Faith said, "Dutton. Don't worry about it, Miss Van. I'm sure he's a nice person or Sybil wouldn't be so fond of him."

"I wonder if Miss Van is well," said when the older woman had gone to her own room.

She never used to be like this, Daphne admitted. "I think Joan upsets her. She never gives the old girl a kind word after all she's done for her, letting him live here and having her friends tramping up and down the stairs all hours of the day and night. If Joan's such an artist why doesn't she get herself a job?"

"She's looking for one," Faith said, "but she's responsible for her. After all Joan is her own brother's child."

OWN PROBLEM

"So what?" Daphne inquired and retreated into the silent contemplation of her own problem. There was more to it now than anyone even Miss Van suspected.

During these weeks of brooding and loneliness Daphne had found herself confronted with a development which might change everything.

And though there were hours when she felt she could not face it there were others when Daphne's little soul felt itself expanding into glorious maturity.

She was suffering but she was also growing up with a sudden which frightened her. That was why she had to have solitude. To think things over. She did not see Faith's plying glance as she turned her back and continued to stare out the window.

But Faith decided to tell Sybil what Miss Van had said. It would be easy enough to suggest that Jack Dutton stop at the house some evening.

Worth it to ally the older woman's suggestion. Faith waited up for Sybil because she also wanted to see her.

ed to ask her if she had heard from Lee.

Now that the three weeks were up when would he return?

WENT TO BED

Daphne had gone to bed so the two girls went into the other room where Sybil replied to Faith's question.

"I had a card from Lee several days ago and he would be back tomorrow. I'll probably see him tomorrow night. Jack won't be here so it will be as good a time as any."

Sybil did not relish the prospect of confining to Lee but she would make herself go through with it.

Faith's heart beat faster to realize that at last the moment for which she had been waiting was so near.

To conceal her confusion she asked, "How are you and Jack getting along?"

Sybil smiled.

"Oh, wonderfully. I think they feel the same way about me but I've got some silly notion that he has to wait until he's a pilot before we can be married."

"Miss Van thinks you are ashamed of him," Faith said frankly.

"Ashamed of Jack Dutton?" Sybil pointed out, "What in the world gave her that idea?"

"It's because you don't seem to want any of us to meet him. I think he's had much more free time and they should come home with you."

"You were already down town but if you could arrange for him to come here some time."

"Of course I'll arrange it," Sybil promised. Although it makes me very uneasy. After all, Faith, she's not my guardian and I'm not a kidnaper."

LIKE CHILDREN

"I suppose we seem like children to her. But you know, Sib, I don't think Miss Van is well. She's been taking all our troubles too seriously."

"Well, yours is going to be settled by tomorrow night," Sybil reminded her but she was wrong because the morning paper carried the announcement of Mr. Lee Brent's engagement to Mr. Lee Brent.

Mr. H. J. White and Mrs. Hugh Pullerton, if they happen to pair up for the Women's Pair game, should give a fine account of themselves. They recently won the Ohio State Women's Pair event and also White and White Pullerton won my trophy for the Ohio State Mixed Pair championship for the second time.

Mr. White is shown on the trigger which is more to doubt, but she can defend a hand as quick in the following example.

It is easy to say that East's hand was rich, but certainly many would say it was made without turning into such disaster.

After taking the ace of clubs, Mrs. White led the jack of spades and North cashed two more clubs. South discarded a diamond. North then led a spade and Mrs. White cashed two spade tricks.

The diamond return gave North two tricks in that suit and when North led the third diamond East discarded a spade. The jack of hearts. But South overruled with the king, exited with a spade and later won a second trick with the club. Unhappy East was set 1,000 points.

SCREAMING BOMBS ARE NOT A NEW IDEA

When the Nazi invaders of England began using bombs that whistled and screamed terrifying sounds, many people believed that it was a new idea. The truth is that the same principle of frightening enemies was used by the Chinese over 2,000 years ago, when Hsiao Shao, a Mongolian prince, had his soldiers fit their arrows with screaming whistles. So effective were they that great hordes of soldiers could be dispersed by blowing a few of them into their midst. The sound was worse than the arrows. It was the beginning of making war by bluff, and the Nazis copied it.

Russia fought against England, France, Sweden, and Turkey in the Crimean War.
